Austin Events 2015 Calendar Updates for Awesome People Like You

March-April
2015 Updates

In This Email:

- Moving on up.
- March updates
- April updates
- More words and stuff in case anyone reads that far and still needs something to do.

Dear My Favorite Subscriber,

I send you this email via Big Weekend Calendars' vast network of outer-space satellites.

I have constructed the satellite network just for you.

Because I am currently working on the first events calendar especially made for events and activities which take place on the moon.

But I have to admit, it's been a tough slog.

It turns out the moon doesn't have much going on.

And the photos kind of all look the same.

I fear it may be some time before our multimillion-dollar investment in the satellite network pays off, but rest assured that "Moon Events 2016" will definitely happen, unless it doesn't.

So if maybe the moon's not your idea of a fun day trip, I will suggest you stick to "Austin Events 2015". Which you can still get while they last! Most stores are already sold out for the year.

Here's your calendar updates for March and April!

Mike Stefanik
Creator, Big Weekend Calendars

PS: If you are considering holding an event in 2016, I encourage you to consider one of the many fine lunar venues available to you. I promise to include your event on Moon Events 2016. Yes, it's a little out of the way, but there does not appear to be much red tape to deal with once you decide to host your event there.

PPS: There's also a calendar for Portland and Houston.

OLD NEWS

We've (still) got a video on the website of me showing people how a calendar works. I paid a lot for this, so expect to see it for eternity. Check it out on the sample page. (To make it bigger, click on the little YouTube icon in the bottom right.)

Thanks to Moth to Flame, who I worked with on this project.
